Market Intelligence

There are over 113 Oil & Gas projects across all sectors under development in China that are scheduled for start-up from 2025-2032 with an estimated CAPEX worth over US$174.56 billion.

When we break down into each sector, Downstream industry contributes the largest to China Oil and Gas, both projects and CAPEX, with 55 projects that are worth US$141.02 billion, currently under development.

Midstream industry comes next in term of CAPEX, contributing to US$19.64 billion with 20 projects. Finally, Upstream industry contributes US$13.90 billion with 38 projects.

These figures show the importance of China being a key country for companies to focus on as they seek to maintain the global Supply Chain's position in the Oil and Gas industry.
