

ARGENTINA OIL & GAS 2017

25-28 SEPTEMBER 2017
BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA

The EIC are proud to be organising and managing the UK National Pavilion at Argentina Oil & Gas (AOG) 2017.

South America's second largest economy and an important player the oil and gas market, Argentina is firmly back on the radar of foreign investors following the election of Mauricio Macri in 2015. The new administration has lifted currency controls and restored access to international capital markets, thus enabling key energy projects in the country to obtain much-needed financing.

The move has great significance to the oil and gas market, especially since the discovery of the massive shale gas resources in the Neuquén basin. The Vaca Muerta formation, which is often compared to the Eagle Ford Shale in the US, is estimated to hold as much as 308 trillion cubic feet of shale gas. The Energy Information Administration (EIA) ranks Argentina as the world's second largest shale gas reserve, at 802 trillion cubic feet.
